I spoke briefly with Les Grober today - briefly because he was preparing to go on leave for 2 weeks and seemed a little harried. He welcomes conversation on the BDCP water quality/flows impacts (I told him we were beginning to think about how to get to LEDPA and were interested in their 401 cert decision-making analysis - which is under his purview now so thats a good thing!) He said Mark Gowdy and Adam Ballard would be the guys to start with to tee up the issues/decisions.
